SYMPHONY SPACE

Key Staff Bios

Kathy Landau became Executive Director in September, 2016. She assumed this leadership role after six years at National Dance Institute (NDI) where she was Executive Director. During her tenure, NDI experienced unprecedented growth and stability—programmatically and financially—including the realization of its first-ever permanent home. Prior to her role at NDI, Landau spent 20 years in the fashion industry, including 10 years with Diane von Furstenberg where she repositioned the designer's brand and spearheaded its expansion.

Peg Wreen became Managing Director in July 2011. Ms. Wreen has been at Symphony Space since 1997. Prior to that, she was Assistant Dean for Administration at Tisch School of the Arts, New York University.

Lulu Fogarty is in her second year as Education Director. Ms. Fogarty has worked as a teaching artist in public and charter schools since 2014, as a leader of acting and poetry workshops to blended classrooms of neurodiverse and neurotypical students. She has also worked with the Arts in Education Roundtable Task Force on Equity and Inclusion, where she co-chaired their 2022 Day of Learning Subcommittee. Most recently, Lulu served as the Program Director at BEAT (Bridging Education & Arts Together), a Queens-based, non-profit arts education organization.

Regina Larkin, our Manager of Education Programs, spent two decades as a representative of the United States Information Agency's Goodwill Missions. She has taught at the Alvin Ailey American Dance Center, Eliot Feld Ballet Tech, Peridance International School, Fordham University, LaGuardia High School, and colleges and universities throughout the United States. Larkin has worked at Symphony Space for more than a decade.
